Fáilte

Ar son Chraobh na hÉireann den Chomhdháil Cheilteach, cuirimid fáilte fhíorchaoin roimh na teachtaí ó na tíortha éagsúla, roimh na léachtóirí, na ceoltóirí agus an gnáthphobal ó chian agus ó chóngar go dtí an Chomhdháil Idirnaisiúnta seo. Téama spreagúil atá againn i mbliana:

Cuirimid fáilte ar leith romhaibh go dtí Portláirge i ndúiche álainn stairiúil. Labhartar Gaeilge mar ghnáth-theanga i gceantracha áirithe di. Tá súil againn go mbeidh tréimhse fhíorthaitneamhach agaibh uile linn agus go bhfillfidh sibh abhaile eolgaiseach sásta.

On behalf of the Irish Branch of the Celtic Congress, may we sincerely welcome to this International Congress all the delegates from the various countries, the lecturers, the musicians and the general public from near and far.

We particularly welcome you to Waterford, situated in a beautiful and historic area. Irish is spoken as a daily language in certain parts of the surrounding district. We hope you will all have a truly pleasurable stay with us, and that you will return home informed and satisfied.

Seán Mac Suibhne Uachtarán/President,
Étaín Nic Cinngamhna Secretary/Rúnaí
Craobh na hÉireann den An Chomhdháil Cheilteach / Irish Branch of The Celtic Congress.
Áine Ní Fhiannusa International President/ Uachtarán Idirnaisiúnta

A Cháirde Cheilteacha -

Is le bród agus le h-áthas a fearaim Céad Míle Fáilte romhaimh go dtí na Déise agus chuig An Comhdháil Cheilteach 2023. Taréis blianta an Covid 19 a chur tharainn is iontach í an deis a fháilt teacht le céile ‘beo’ lenar gcairde arís. Táim cinnte go mbainfidh sibh taitneamh agus tairfe as an gclár agus as na h-imeachtaí le theacht. . “Na Ceiltigh agus An Nádúr” téama na bliana seo. Táimid buíoch don Dr Séamus Dillon ó S.E.T.U. a tháinig i gcabhair orainn agus a thairg áiseanna na hOllscoile duinn chun go mbeimis in ann an Comhdháil a cheiliúradh i mbliana.

It is my absolute delight that the Celtic Congress has come to the Déise in 2023. We are based in the Viking City, the oldest city in Ireland, but our Celtic ancestors were here long before the Vikings. Waterford is a city and county that celebrates History, Culture, Music, Tourism, Learning, Beauty in its geographical features and most of all in its people. Our theme of The Celts and Nature is broad and offers plenty of thought and variety. This will be evident from our speakers’ presentations. I wish you a wonderful visit to this locality and encourage you to walk around and explore all it has to offer.

Éanna Ní Lamhna

Tá céimeanna eolaíocht ag Éanna ó Choláiste Ollscoile, Báile Átha Cliath.

Bhunaigh sí: Lár Ionad Cuntas Bitheolaíocht Éireann i 1974. Is í atá freagrach as na céad léarscaileanna dáileachán a bhaineann le feithidí agus sineacha.

I measc a saothar foilsithe tá cúig abhar léinn faoi cháillíocht nó fiúntas an aeir in Éirinn, sé leabhar ag cuimsiú "Wild Dublin" agus an ceann is déanaí: "Wild and Wonderful" foilsithe ag Ó Brian Press i Mí Mean Fómhair.

Ba í Uachtarán An Taisce ó 2004 go 2009 agus faoi láthair 'sí Éanna Uachtarán Comhairle Crainn na hÉireann.

Is craoltóir clúiteach í ar radio agus teilifís maidir le cúrsaí timpeallachta. Craolann sí go minic ar an gclár ag Virgin Media ag a sé a clog

Áiríodh í ar liosta : Ireland's Influential Hundred, i 2012. Is mór an t-éileamh atá uirthi mar léachtóir. Tá Gaeilge ar a toil aici agus í go minic páirteach ar chlára de chuid TG4 agus Radio na Gaeltachta. Bíonn colúin á scríobh aici go minic faoin mbeatha fhiáin in iris éagsúla:

Aithnítear a guth ar an haertonnta agus tugtar, a modh díreach cainte, faoi ndeara ar chúrsaí timpeallachta.

Eanna NI Lamhna holds science degrees from UCD.

She set up the Irish Biological Records Centre in 1974 and is responsible for the original distribution maps of mammal and insects.

Her publications include a series of five studies on Irish Air Quality, six books including Wild Dublin and her most recent – Wild and Wonderful - published by O Brien Press in September..

She was President of An Taisce from 2004 – 2009 and is currently president of the Tree Council of Ireland.

She is a highly respected radio and television broadcaster on environmental issues. Apart from the weekly Mooney goes Wild nature programme of which she is the mainstay since it began in 1995.

She was included in Irelands “influential hundred “list in 2012. She is a much sought-after speaker and lecturer. She is a fluent Irish speaker appearing regularly on TG 4 and on Radio na Gaeltachta She writes regular columns on Wildlife

She has one of the most instantly recognisable voices on the airwaves and is noted for her no-nonsense, straight-talking take on environmental matters.

Luimníoch ó dhúchas is ea an Dr Séamus Dillon.

Bhain sé dochtúireacht amach ó Choláiste Mhuire gan Smál sa bhliain 2008.

Tá suim aige i nGaeilge an 19ú hAois agus i stair na Gaeilge thar lear.

Tá léachtana agus ranganna tugtha aige in Éirinn, An Bhreatain, An Pholainn agus na Stáit Aontaithe.

Tá sé ina Cheann Roinne ar Roinn na nDaonnachtaí in Ollscoil Teicneolaíochta an Oirdheiscirt.

Originally from Co. Limerick, Dr Dillon graduated with a PhD from Mary Immaculate College (University of Limerick) in 2008. His main research interests lie in the Irish language of the 19th Century, particularly among Irish communities outside of Ireland. He moved to Dublin in 2008 where he taught for a period at St Patrick's College Drumcondra. Dr Dillon has been working at South Eastern Technical University Waterford since September 2009 where he was the first Irish language lecturer on the BA Arts (Hons) programme. He has given lectures and classes in Ireland, the UK, Poland and the US. Dr Dillon was previously the Quality Promotion and Academic Policy Development Co-ordinator in S.E.T.U. (formerly W.I.T.) Previously the Head of the Department of Arts in the School of Humanities, Dr Dillon is now the Head of the Department of Humanities.

Joy Rooney, Portalis Senior Responsible Officer and Design Lead, Lecturer and Researcher in Design, South East Technological University (SETU).

Ian Dunne, Portalis Project Management Facilitator, South East Technological University (SETU).

Portalis explores connections between Cardigan Bay Wales and South-East Ireland during the Mesolithic period, or what used to be known as the Middle Stone Age. We do this by using existing evidence and providing new data, to create an exciting cross-border narrative. This pilot project seeks to identify the platforms and cultural assets which will allow visitors to immerse themselves in a variety of cultural experiences that are connected through time and place.

Our work consolidates existing archaeological, geological and environmental evidence and provides and interprets new data into an exciting cross-border narrative.

We work using drilled core sampling, excavation, lab analysis, citizen science workshops, visitor experience design including film and virtual reality and cross-border network development.

The project highlights the value of protecting our natural and cultural heritage and related climate adaptation through public archaeology events, a Film documentary, and more. Portalis also explores options about protecting our heritage and lessons learned from our earliest settlers in adapting to the changes ahead.

The Portalis project, €1.95m, is supported with €1.5m funding from the European Regional Development Fund through the Ireland Wales Cooperation Programme, www.irelandwales.eu The project is led by South East Technological University, (SETU) and is supported by the University of Wales Trinity Saint David, Ceredigion County Council and Waterford Chamber of Commerce.

Presentation of Plantkelt

Plants changed little over millenia, and so did their names. This persistence is especially marked in celtic languages. Roland Mogn will show how far back in time these common traits stretch through languages.

The research, input and output for consultation has been ongoing for 32 years in 30 languages of Western Europe, bringing together 380.000 references, spelling 296.000 names designating over 15.600 plants. Along with the speaker, we will trawl the database and reveal all the search possibilities.

These linguistic and botanic items show the multimillennial links between our celtic languages that have endured to this day.

Would we dream too far and propose meanings to this living community of plant names ?

Roland Mogn holds a Master of Science in Botany from the university of Nantes (Brittany) and a PhD in Celtic Studies from the university of Rennes.

I have spoken Cornish for most of my life and brought up my two children speaking Cornish as their mother tongue. I have spent my lifetime promoting the language through various organisations such as Kowethas an Yeth Kernewek, Kesva an Taves Kernewek and the Akademi Kernewek. I have been active in supporting and co-ordinating inter-Celtic links through the Celtic Congress, Kernow Pan-Celtic, the Lorient Festival and other Celtic organisations.

I have worked on the preservation and promotion of the special natural and historic environment of Cornwall such as working for the Cornwall Wildlife Trust and Camborne School of Mines and managing projects such as the Great Trees of Cornwall; the Cornwall part of the Cycleau European Water project, Cornish hedges through the Cornish Hedge Research and Environment Group, the culture and language strand of the Penwith Landscape Project; the environment strand of the Liskeard to Looe Moor to Sea project and as Vice-President of the Royal Geological Society of Cornwall.

Brother Sea

Brother Sea as a duo features award winning Celtic songwriter Kristian Lannen with the simply breath taking and unique style of Calum Ingram on cello. Their music is that of departure into a wild adventure, sweeping you away with a sense of a new beginning. With hypnotic vocals accompanied by a playful twist on classic folk instruments they create awe and intrigue with songs that are like campfire stories exploring heritage and folklore as they gently flicker through captivating soundscapes.

Brother Sea are quickly becoming a festival favourite with a wondrous sound that billows through heart felt sails held fast by ropes of desire to deeply connect with any audience. From duo to full five piece their songs and storytelling powerfully transcend and offer a magic honed by friendship and musical synergy.
